PRINCESS MARGARET LEAVES THE
CAFÉ DE PARIS IN THE 1950S

An unique chance to experience the glamour and excitement of a 1920's, 30s and 40s evening at London's legendary Café De Paris – with a three course dinner, a cabaret performance of Noel Coward's songs from Coward scholar Dominic Vlasto of the Noel Coward Society and dance music from Michael Law's Piccadilly Dance Orchestra. Let us transport you back to a dream world of nightclubs, champagne – and the gloriously tuneful music of the Art Déco era!

Stylish, sophisticated, smooth ...The Piccadilly Dance Orchestra played for dancing for four years at London's Ritz Hotel and for six years at the home of the British Dance Bands: The Savoy. For this very special event, our FOURTH annual ball at the Café de Paris, the orchestra will recreate jazz, swing and vocal hits from the 1920s to 40s, along with classic ballroom dance styles such as the Cha Cha, Waltz and Tango.

Opened in 1924, the Café de Paris is one of London's last remaining "high society" night clubs and has an unique and glamorous history of cabaret and dance bands, including legendary performances by Noel Coward and Marlene Dietrich – not forgetting band leader Ken "Snakehips" Johnson, who was killed on the fateful night in 1941 when a wartime bomb made a direct hit on the Café de Paris.

Michael Law's PICCADILLY DANCE ORCHESTRA

The Piccadilly Dance Orchestra, founded by Cambridge-educated singer, arranger and conductor Michael Law, is Britain's leading jazz age band. Increasingly in demand for their concert and dance evenings, Michael's unparalleled empathy and skill at evoking the period between the Twenties and Forties with the utmost authenticity and the support of the superb musicians of the PDO make this a firm favourite. Free from undue nostalgia but enthralling and often moving, PDO are endearing themselves to audiences worldwide with the growing sales of their CDs.

The PDO also enjoy high celebrity status. NOW Magazine wrote recently: "The sumptuous Savoy Hotel was transformed into a spectacular speakeasy...The Piccadilly Dance Orchestra ensured that everyone was up on their toes... VIP guests Elizabeth Hurley, Stephen Fry, Cilla Black, Paul O'Grady, Tracey Emin and Lulu were transported into a bygone era..." And following their concert at John Dankworth and Cleo Laine's Wavendon Festival: "this was probably the most entertaining evening I can remember...the orchestra is really superb..."

"Libidinous elegance....astonishingly good" The Spectator "Miraculously authentic" Country Life
 "Sparkling, toe-tapping entertainment ending with the audience shouting for encores" The Stage
 "...an unparalleled level of audience feedback and many demands for your immediate return"
 South Bank Centre, London
